I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I've Been Thinking...

Dear Church Family,

Where did the year go? I remember my mother telling me that the years got faster. Mom was almost always right. She was certainly right about this. If you are like me, it seems that 2023 just began and now, in December, the year is coming to a close.

What a year it has been! When I think back about all we have packed into the year I wonder how we did it. Early in the year we sent a mission team to India. What a great experience that was for 12 of our church family (while everyone else prayed). A few of us were able to travel in April and May to Israel and Egypt. I'm sure glad we went back then. Of course, it's not possible now. In addition to those trips, we sent a good part of our youth group and youth leaders to Puerto Rico to serve on a North American Mission Board (of the SBC) "Send Relief" mission project. Our youth had a true growth experience.

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .

I often mark a year by the topics I preach in worship. Perhaps you will recall that for a few months we looked at what it means to be a Baptist. For even a longer period of time we looked at what the Bible teaches us about "family" matters. Some of those "matters" were hard topics, but the Bible continues to be our authority for faith and practice, so we went where scripture led and took our conclusions there. Finally, for a couple months we followed the spiritual journey of Abraham, finding in his journey guidance for our own spiritual journeys. I constantly pray that what God reveals in worship becomes a permanent part of our faith walks.

The next several weeks will be packed. Have you looked at December? Oh my! It's going to be terrific but it's going to be full. December holds Advent, two Sundays filled with choir musicals, The Living Christmas Cards, and our special Christmas Eve service. And then 2024 comes knocking. Already we are gearing up for next year. Challenging year? Yes. Blessed year? Absolutely.

I can hardly wait . . .
